

Economics 4616-001: Labor Economics
Fall 2007

period between the second midterm and the final exam, we will do in-class exercises on specified dates in lieu of an additional homework assignment. On these dates, I will be taking attendance.

There is no excuse for missing an exam unless there is a documented medical or family emergency. Note that you are required to submit documentation of any emergency. In all other cases, failure to take an exam will result in a zero for that exam. If a legitimate emergency arises, other exams will be re-weighted; no make-up exams will be given. If you foresee any legitimate conflict with the dates of the assignments or exams, please see me at least two weeks beforehand or as soon as possible.

If you miss a class, you are responsible for obtaining notes on the material we covered from another classmate. I encourage you to come to my office hours to discuss the material you missed, but not before you have gone over the material yourself through notes and the textbook.

Homework is due in class at the beginning of lecture on the dates specified. Following a 15-minute grace period, your grade will fall by 20% for every day that the assignment is late (with a zero being the minimum obtainable score). This means that if the assignment is due at 9AM and you turn it in at 10AM and you got 95/100, it will be recorded as 75/100. You may collaborate with your classmates on homework, but each student must submit their own homework and provide the names of any students with which he collaborated on the first page of the assignment. It is important that you demonstrate that you are thinking independently as I will compare your answers to those of other students in the class.

Campus policy regarding religious observances requires that faculty make every effort to reasonably and fairly deal with all students who, because of religious obligations, have conflicts with scheduled exams, assignments or required attendance. In this class, please see me at least two weeks prior to any conflicts due to religious observances. See full details at www.colorado.edu/policies/fac_relig.html
