Course Description:

~~Principles of Macroeconomics (ECON 2020) is an introductory course with Principles of Microeconomics freely available from nature in the immediate future – hence choices must be made among the many things we want. This leads to the fundamental economic questions, narrowly defined, which face all societies: What to produce? How to produce? And for whom to produce? But economics really is much broader in scope than~~

The issues we discuss are complex but they do lend themselves extremely well to critical thinking and rational inquiry. ~~While the guiding principles of this course, due to the ability to think about complex issues in a logical, objective manner, thinking of statistics and procedures to differentiate between the relevant and the information.~~

The topics covered in this course can be divided into three main categories: Fiscal Policy, Monetary Policy, and Open-Economy Macroeconomics. Macroeconomics cannot be well understood without some grounding in microeconomics, if you have not had met the prerequisite for this class you should see me during the first week

~~es on the course website, but these very brief outlines and the book are learn in class –~~

they are not substitutes for lecture materials!

Note: you cannot get credit for both Economics 1000 and Economics 2010/2020.

Readings: Mankiw, N. Gregory; Brief Principles of Macroeconomics 4th edition.
You should postpone buying the text until after the first day of class because there are several options.

A more detailed outline of covered material and chapters will be handed out or posted separately.

Recitation:

Your TAs will give the recitation grade. They will be based on problem sets, quizzes and/or other assignments that your TAs and I think may be useful. The TAs will explain their grading policy more thoroughly in recitation.

Homework Assignments:

You will be given optional problem sets (on Aplia) that may be very helpful in your preparation for exams. The Aplia program has a two week trial period during which it is free to use. I will cover all necessary material to complete these problem sets and prepare for exams in class. In addition, I will post some extra study questions before each exam. These will not account for part of your grade, but they may be very helpful. You will also be given assignments in recitation.

In-class Assignments:

There will be 5 in-class assignments during the semester each worth 1% of your total grade (under either option). If you miss an in-class assignment, you will receive a zero unless you are ill and can provide proof (e.g. a letter from the student health center). If you miss an in-class assignment with a valid excuse then the weight of your final will be increased. In-class assignment dates can be found on the course outline.

Exams:

There will be four hourly exams, and a cumulative final. Tests will consist of multiple-choice questions and occasionally some longer problems. Exams (other than the final) are not cumulative, but the material does build on itself so it is important to understand all of the concepts as we go. Exams will be given in class on the days listed. If you miss an exam, then the weight of se ohtrgr

Grading:

You have two options for how your final grade will be tabulated:

Option 1:

4 Exams (13% each)	52%
Aplia problem sets	9%
Recitation	8%
In-class assignments	5%
Clicker points	8%
Cumulative final	18%

Option 2:
